WELLNESS VILLAGE

Building Compassion

"What we're creating here, and what we started with, was creating something where people can walk in to get the appropriate level of care when they need it, how they need it, with compassion, love, and an actual design that works," said Rhyan Miller, Deputy Director Integrated Programs during a recent tour of the Wellness Village.

PMB, the developer of the Wellness Village project, along with Riverside University Health System, recently welcomed AIA members on a tour of the behavioral health campus.
